

A Message From The President

Spring is here - the DAG Arts Castle Show, the Delaware Art Festival, and even some better weather.

This month, April 28, we will meet at The Delaware Library, 84 E. Winter St. at the usual time, 7:30 pm. We will recap the Arts Castle Show, plan for the Art Festival and the Castle's 25th anniversary, and begin talking about officers for next year.

Our condolences go out to DAG member Dianne Almendinger whose husband, Don, recently passed away*. Diane was scheduled to be our speaker this month, but as a last minute backup, Kris Kolb has agreed to speak to us about the book-making class that she is taking through Ohio Wesleyan University's art department.

I'm looking forward to seeing you all at the reception on the 27th and the meeting on the 28th.

Ken Hildebrand

Filling in as our guest speaker this month is our newsletter editor, Kris Hyland Kolb, who will be speaking about the art of hand-made books. Kris has been taking a class on this topic through the art department of OWU. She will be sharing samples of various books and book-binding techniques provided by several of the classes' students as well as the instructor.

Wine and Arts Festival

“Grape” things to come Saturday, June 14 from 11am to 10pm

Wine and art: significations of the finer things in life. Both can be enjoyed in the relaxed charm of the historical Grove City Town Center at their Wine and Arts Festival, June 14, 11 am to 10 pm. Twelve Ohio wineries, including Grove City’s own Plum Run Winery, will offer samples of their various vintages, and guests can find a new favorite beverage or get-away spot. The wineries will be complimented by many artists and artisans as they create wine-related treasures. Guests can expect everything from custom-made wooden furniture, to fine art, to vintage pieces in a juried show.

Last year’s popularity, with approximately 12,000 attendees, promises that this year’s festival will be one that wine makers and artists won’t want to miss. This year all venders can anticipate great exposure from City Scene Magazine and its circulation of 65,000, and the venue will also be reported on digital and social media.

The warmth and ease of summer enjoyed with friends in the streets of downtown Grove City and accented with wine and art is just what is needed after such a long and brutal winter.

Are you an artist that would like to exhibit at the Festival? Use this link to apply and pay online, Online Application, or email us at info@grovecitytowncenter.org to obtain an application by email or mail and pay by check. Each spot is 10 x 14 and the cost is $35. Crafters that would like to participate, please call our office at 614 539-8762 to complete a short interview. Currently we are accepting wine related crafters for the event. Direct sales companies such as Scentsy, Thirty One, Origami Owl, etc. are not being accepted for this festival.
